CORRECTED ELECTRONIC CASE MANAGEMENT PROTOCOL ORDER

On August 29, 2012, the Court entered its Electronic Case Management Protocol Order, with an effective date of September 10, 2012, to simplify the electronic case filing (“ECF”) system in Automotive Parts Antitrust Litigation. Since that time, six new automotive parts have been added to the litigation, requiring the Court to amend the ECF procedures to delete the letters appearing in the case numbers of the first six parts and replace them with the numeral 2 and to assign numbers to the five newly added parts. The amended protocol follows:

1. The “Master Case,” 12-md-02311, includes all cases involving automotive parts antitrust actions that are transferred to the Court by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation (“JPML”) or otherwise consolidated or coordinated with other matters before the Court under the Master Case, 12-md-02311.

2. The Master Case includes “Lead Cases” relating to specific parts, including, but not limited to Wire Harness, Instrument Panel Clusters, Fuel Senders, Heater Control Panels, Bearings, Occupant Safety Systems, Alternators, Anti-Vibration Rubber Parts, Windshield Wipers, Radiators, and Starters.

3. The Lead Cases include “Class Cases” for each particular putative class of plaintiffs (Direct Purchaser, Automobile Dealer, and End-Payor) to the extent such putative plaintiff class has brought an action related to the specific part.

4. Within each Class Case, there will be individual member cases referred to as “Individual Cases”. These are the originally filed individual complaints that will retain the originally assigned case numbers. Accordingly, the cases will be organized as follows:
